THE INLOOK

1955

WESTRIDGE SCHOOL
PASADENA, CALIFORNIA

FOREWORD

FRIENDSHIP between nations is one of the shortest roads to peace. It is the people who feel the sting of war and the destitution of a ravaged country, but it is also the people who feel the warmth and security that amity brings. Now the American people, whether they be ambassadors speaking for their country or eager individuals seeking personal alliances, are striving toward a moral tie throughout the world of nations.

Such individuals are we at Westridge, as we learn to understand and appreciate other peoples and their countries. During this year of international tension, as the world tottered on the brink of war, a step was taken toward this goal. Through our German exchange student from Berlin, Rosemarie Istel, Westridge and its students have made many new friends by way of mutual school organizations and letters sent between Pasadena and Berlin.

As the school year ends, we are content in the knowledge that, in this way, Westridge has contributed to the universal campaign staged by peace-loving people in every nation of the world.

DEDICATION

JONNA BAKER

We dedicate this Inlook of 1955 to the memory of Jonna, one of the most beloved Westridge girls with the confidence that she will remain a constant part of her school for many years to come.

MISS GLADYS PETERSON

HEADMISTRESS

As spokesmen for the class of 1955, we find it hard to express the sincere gratitude we feel toward our headmistress, Miss Gladys Peterson. Not only does she see to it that we receive the best possible education, but she also takes a personal interest in each and every one of us here at Westridge. Whether rooting for the varsity, speaking seriously on the school's aims, or donning a blond wig for the Halloween party, she gives her all for Westridge. For this whole-hearted interest and backing which has served as an inspiration for all, we thank Miss Peterson.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

This has been a year of great accomplishment for the Board of Trustees and of development for Westridge. The new building, which is the result of endless hours of discussion and planning by the Board, has brought added beauty to the school and enjoyment to the students. The Westridge program has become more efficient as well, with the spacious and comfortable new rooms which house the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, as well as the whole-school assemblies and meetings.

SENIO

NANCY LEEDS HUNTING

President of the Student Body

When Nancy came to Westridge from Poly in the tenth grade, she stepped into the role of secretary of her class, and from there to secretary of the Student Body in her junior year. Her senior office is President of the Student Body. Nancy has also found time to take an active part in Mask and Brush and various school sports. Her genuine friendliness and contagious laughter are some of the many reasons why she is so unusually well-liked. "Hunt's" delight in dissecting keeps her in lab most seventh periods. Her ambition is to be an elementary school teacher and the experience gained by supervising her three little brothers will no doubt help—good luck, Nancy!

MARGUERITE STANLEY POULSON

President of the Senior Class

Our senior class president has ably exhibited her executive ability in the three years she has been at Westridge in numerous class activities. Gigi's strawberry blond hair, blue eyes, radiant smile, and even her freckles make her one of the cutest girls in the graduating class. Her varying interests have carried her into Spyglass, Glee Club, Mask and Brush, and Junior Auxiliary, and her love of children is reflected in her Sunday School teaching. Gigi is usually seen answering one of Miss Ewing's searching queries on religion or philosophy with an equally profund reply. Her liking for a special golden bear will no doubt lure her to Cal next year.

KATE STEWART COLLINS

Head of the Welfare Association

Because of her interest and participation in welfare activities, Kate Collins was elected Head of Welfare for this year. Kate's ability to speak French is envied by all other French students, and justifiably, too, for she won first prize in a national French speaking contest last year. She has appeared in almost every Mask and Brush production since her arrival at Westridge, and every Westridge audience is aware of her classic dramatic talent. In Kate's junior year, she was editor of the Spyglass and her peace essay won honorable mention. In addition to her many literary contributions to Westridge, Kate has exhibited a never-lagging school spirit by spectating at all athletic events.

ANNE LEONARD COOLEY

Anne Cooley is alphabetically the first of the "three Cooleys". She and Marion are twins, and Caroline is their cousin. Ann, famous for her curly red hair, has many interests, ranging from singing to Girl Scouts, of which she hopes to make a career. A valuable characteristic of Anne's is the sincere interest she has in everything she does, in her friends, and in Westridge. Anne is the proud possessor of two white mice, Jenifer and Judy, and she is often seen carrying Mona's lettuce to their quarters in the biology lab. She won the honor of being selected to spend this summer in Europe working with the Girl Scouts.

fabulous friend,
we had fun together at "yak"ing. I hope you can escape. Read a little better next year. She teaches such hard subject. Take good care of those dogies of yours — don't get into any crack-ups
Bye - Be good - HAVE FUN ALWAYS love me

MARIAN BEATTIE COOLEY

If you are one of the more observant Westridgites you can tell Marion Cooley from her twin because her hair is parted on the left side while Anne's is on the right. Although the twins, after two years, still have all their classmates wondering "who is who?" they have quite different interests. Marion is an active member of the Glee Club and Mask and Brush, and she headed the properties committee for the operetta. Marion numbers acting as one of her foremost interests, and she spends a great deal of time writing letters to "friends" across the sea.

or should I say Peterson - the new Latin teacher

CAROLINE CANFIELD COOLEY

Caroline is one of the more reticent members of the senior class. Her creative ability is shown by her amusing cartoons, but still more by her mastery of the piano. Last year she was an active and valuable member of the Music Assembly Committee, and this year was elected head of the committee. She has given the school much pleasure with her well-planned programs. Caroline hopes to be a nurse after graduation from college, and her experience at Huntington Hospital, as a member of the Junior Auxiliary, should be useful to her. Her quiet friendliness has certainly been an enviable asset to the class of '55.

TONI DIBBLE

President of the Athletic Association

The mighty spirit and pixey quality of our blushing A.A. pres is unsurpassed by any other member of the class of '55. "Five foot two, eyes of blue" really does apply to this little gal, as she has consistently been among the smallest girls in her class through the nine years at Westridge. And there is a special gleam in those eyes when Toni speaks of Ojai week-ends or Balboa summers, both of which seem to have captured her heart. Although her chief interest lies in the sports department, she has found time to take part in many Mask and Brush and Glee Club productions. Toni has brought much joy to Westridge, and we are sure she will continue to be a delight to her many friends throughout the rest of her life.

JANET GERTMENIAN

Art Editor of the Inlook

Janet is known for her invaluable common sense and sincere loyalty to the school. Although she may appear reserved to some, she is always the first one to volunteer her services whenever needed. Many hours of Janet's time have been spent studying ballet, and because of her unlimited talent she had the privilege of traveling with a ballet company throughout Europe. Starring in many a music assembly, Janet has captured her audience with her poise and graceful dancing. Although this interest keeps her busy, she always finds time to keep up her grades and to serve capably as art editor of the Inlook. Good luck in a career we'll all be anxiously folowing to its peak.

JENNITH KNOWLTON GILBERT

President of Mask and Brush Club

One of the most artistic and talented seniors is Jennith, president of Mask and Brush. She can rarely be found without scripts, knitting needles, music scores, or one of her sensational Gilbert originals hot off the sewing machine. Her sincere interest in the theater has been evident through her years at Westridge. She has either acted or directed in all the productions at the school. By her past successes it is certain she will be an outstanding personality in any field she enters—good luck, Jennith!

BARBARA YOUNG GLOVER

Business Manager of the Spyglass

Our littlest twin has made herself a big part of Westridge life since she came last year. "Girls, I've got to have those ads tomorrow," is the echo in the study hall every few weeks, as Bobbie, the head of Spyglass advertising, shouts and threatens. Although different as night and day, the twins separately enter into every phase of school life, Bobbie lending her spriteliness and athletic ability to sports. But both reveal their abounding spirit as cheerleaders this year for the green and white. With a huge appetite for such a small girl, Bobbie is usually seen eating cookies and rolls at recess and four scoops of ice cream at noon, but she still remains our littlest twin! How does she do it!!!

CAROLYN YOUNG GLOVER

Assistant Editor of the Inlook

As associate editor of the Inlook, Carol can usually be seen in conference with Peg over an important matter concerning the yearbook. Her amiable disposition is envied by everyone, and is partially responsible for her popularity at Westridge. Carol lets her twin, Bobby, take to the athletic field while she sticks to the more passive arts, such as playing the role of the Madonna in this year's Christmas pageant, and modelling at last year's Inlook fashion show. Carol may seem reserved at times, but when acting the part of school cheerleader, her genuine spirit is realized by all. In only two short years, the twins have found no trouble in becoming loyal and admired Westridgeites.

BARRY PATRICIA GOODWIN

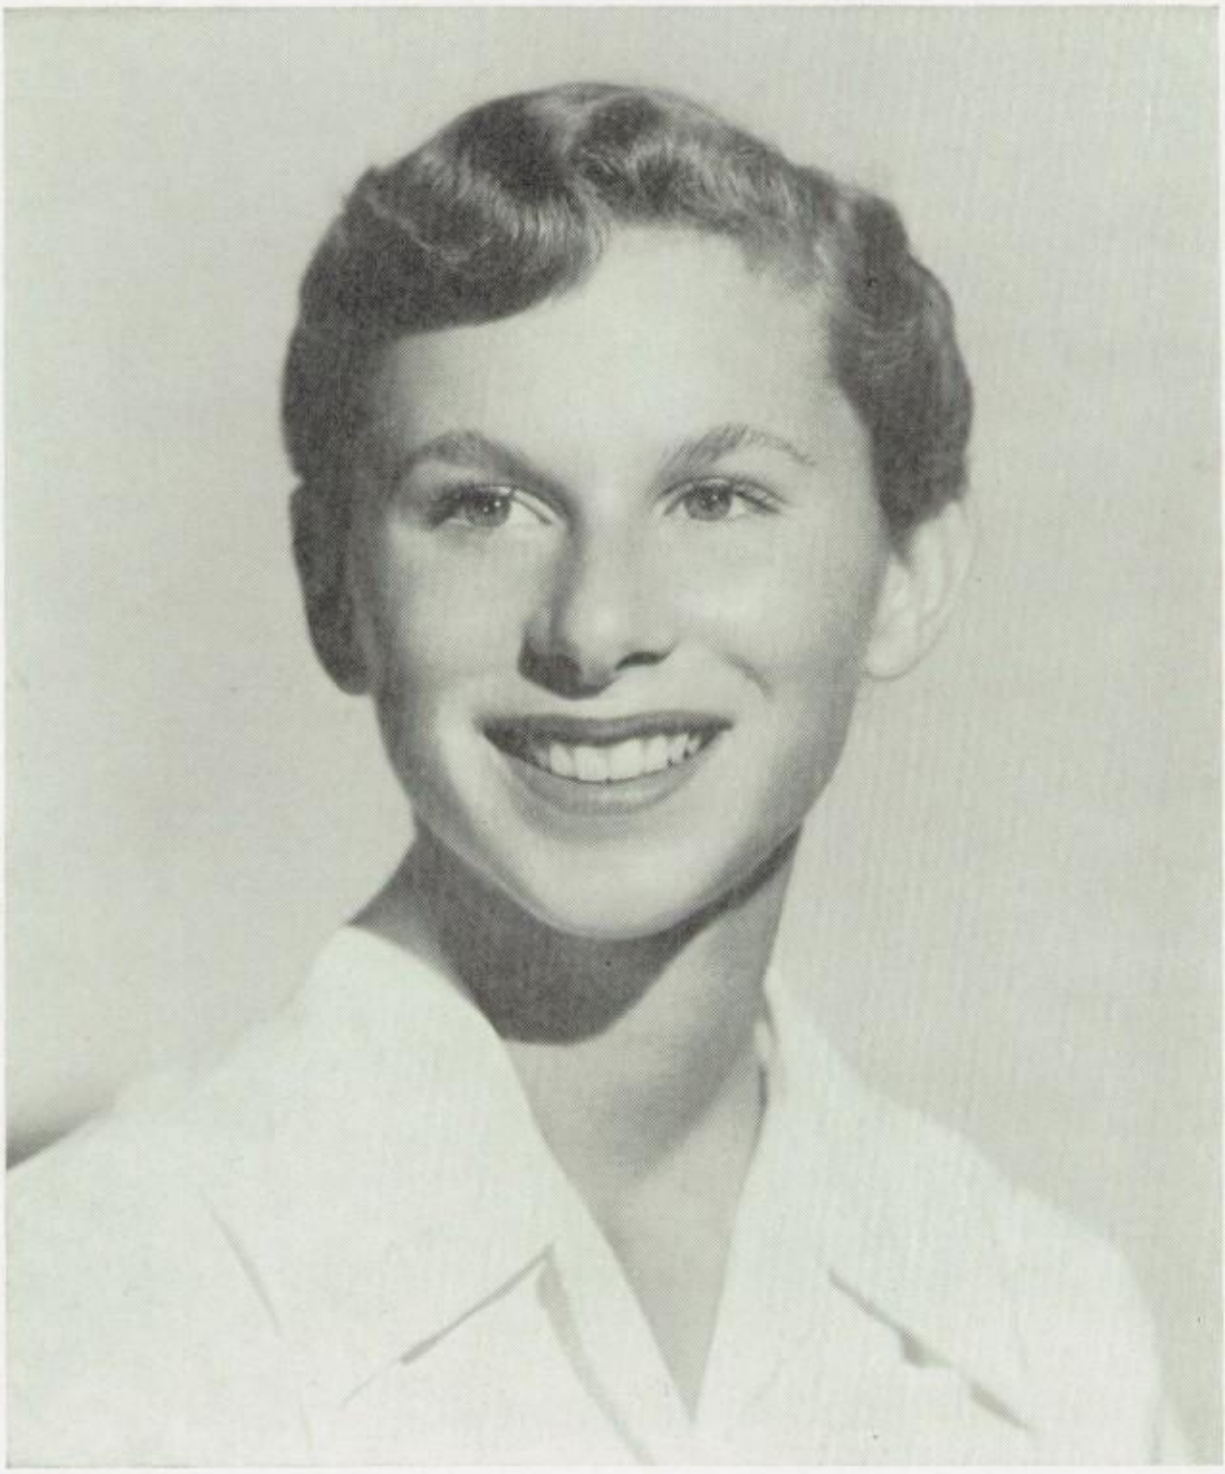
Barry Goodwin has been at Westridge since the sixth grade. "Bear" as all her friends call her, has contributed to all phases of school life and in her senior year she was an active member of the Glee Club and Mask and Brush. "Bear" is an avid horsewoman, and this year was elected vice head of the Westquestrians. She lists among her affinities Palm Springs, animals, and skiing. Barry says she would be much happier if the word "diet" had never been coined and there are many of us who go along with her! But there aren't many who would accompany her as, early, early in the morning she can be seen raising the flag in front of the school. Westridge will lose its "bear", but Cal will gain another—good luck!

CECILY ANN HAMLIN

Cecily can usually be seen sporting her loud dark glasses, whether it's sunny or not, and a ribbon that's too big for her tiny ponytail. A vivacious member of the senior class, Cec has shown her diversified interests by playing leading roles in Glee Club and Mask and Brush productions, and by bringing the Thanksgiving drive for the Children's Home to a successful conclusion. An ardent lover of winter sports, Cec spends her January week-ends away from Pasadena. Another one of those conscientious dieters, Cec may be seen eating a piece of turkey and drinking a cup of tea with no qualms.

CYNTHIA HENSLEY

Throughout her four years at Westridge, Cindy has lent her ability and enthusiasm to all school activities. In the sports field she has played in every tennis tournament from Westridge to Ojai, and has participated in all school varsities. This year she was appropriately elected head of tennis, and she has done much toward promoting Greek spirit. Known for her blue Chevy, her love of animals, her ability to dissect frogs without qualms, and her A's, Cindy spends much of her time on the family ranch in Nevada. Through both athletic and academic contributions, Cynthia has done a great deal toward keeping up Westridge standards.



CASSANDRA SOUTHWICK HOYT

As chief librarian, Sandy can often be heard saying, "Cut the chatter, Gang," and the inevitable reply is "O.K., Cassey," (this name is undoubtedly her Number One pet peeve). She is usually seen sporting her long, long sweaters and flashy argyle socks and sitting on the sen.or steps expounding on her fun trips to the beach, knitting sweaters, or taking a genuine and kindly interest in the complex troubles of her fellow classmates. Sandy is an enthusiastic member of the Glee Club, and she is known for her record collection which ranges from Bop to Beethoven and her interest in a certain Oxyite, which might just draw her to that college next year.

JACQUELINE ANN HURSCHLER

Feature Editor of the Inlook

Jackie is a gal everyone knows and likes. She was born in Bombay, India, and has traveled extensively. Since coming to Westridge three years ago, Jackie has taken part in numerous activities. She is a member of the Glee Club, was vice-head of Greeks in her junior year, and this year holds the titles of Feature Editor of the Inlook and Secretary of Mask and Brush. She is behind the scenes in every Westridge production, working skillfully on last minute touches, or just calming some stage-frightened actress. Jackie is most noted for her admiration of those girls that can get along with the men from a "certain near-by institution", her ability never to lose her temper, and keep calm at all times in Inlook meetings.

ROSEMARIE ISTEL

Secretary-Treasurer of the Senior Class

A special and unique addition to the graduating class this year is Rosemarie Istel, our pert exchange student from the Westridge affiliated German school, Schulfarm-Scharfenberg. Her exciting and humorous talks about her native country have charmed everyone. Rosemarie's immediate success at Westridge is shown by her many new friends and her election to the position of secretary of the senior class. At eight-forty every morning, Rosemarie can be seen running down Orange Grove, dragging her marketing cart filled with books. Westridge hopes that Rosemarie has gained as much happiness from the school and America as we have had from having her here this year.

PARTHENIA PEYTON McCOMB

An outstanding member of the senior class, Peyton's many different interests have led her into a wide variety of school functions. She has taken part in such activities as Mask and Brush, Spyglass reporting and athletic teams. As head of the Scharfenberg committee, she has done an excellent job of bringing the two schools closer together. "Pie" can usually be seen wearing the latest thing in dangling earrings, and can always be seen in anything red from the inside out! Often tempted to go A.W.O.L., she has yet to do so, but then you never can tell . . . Peytie will continue her gay life next year at Stanford.

MARY MARGARET McGREGOR

"There's going to be a fabulous dance!!" This is a familiar statement which Mary uses to advertise Cal Tech dances to the Westridge student body. Since Mary entered the class of '55 she has been a quiet joiner in several activities. Among these is the Mask and Brush, in which she showed her interest in the theatre. Mary has entered the Spyglass, both as a member of the Advertising Staff and as a reporter. Modeling is a week-end pastime that Mary also enjoys. Her undying love for Arizona will definitely lure her there for her college years.

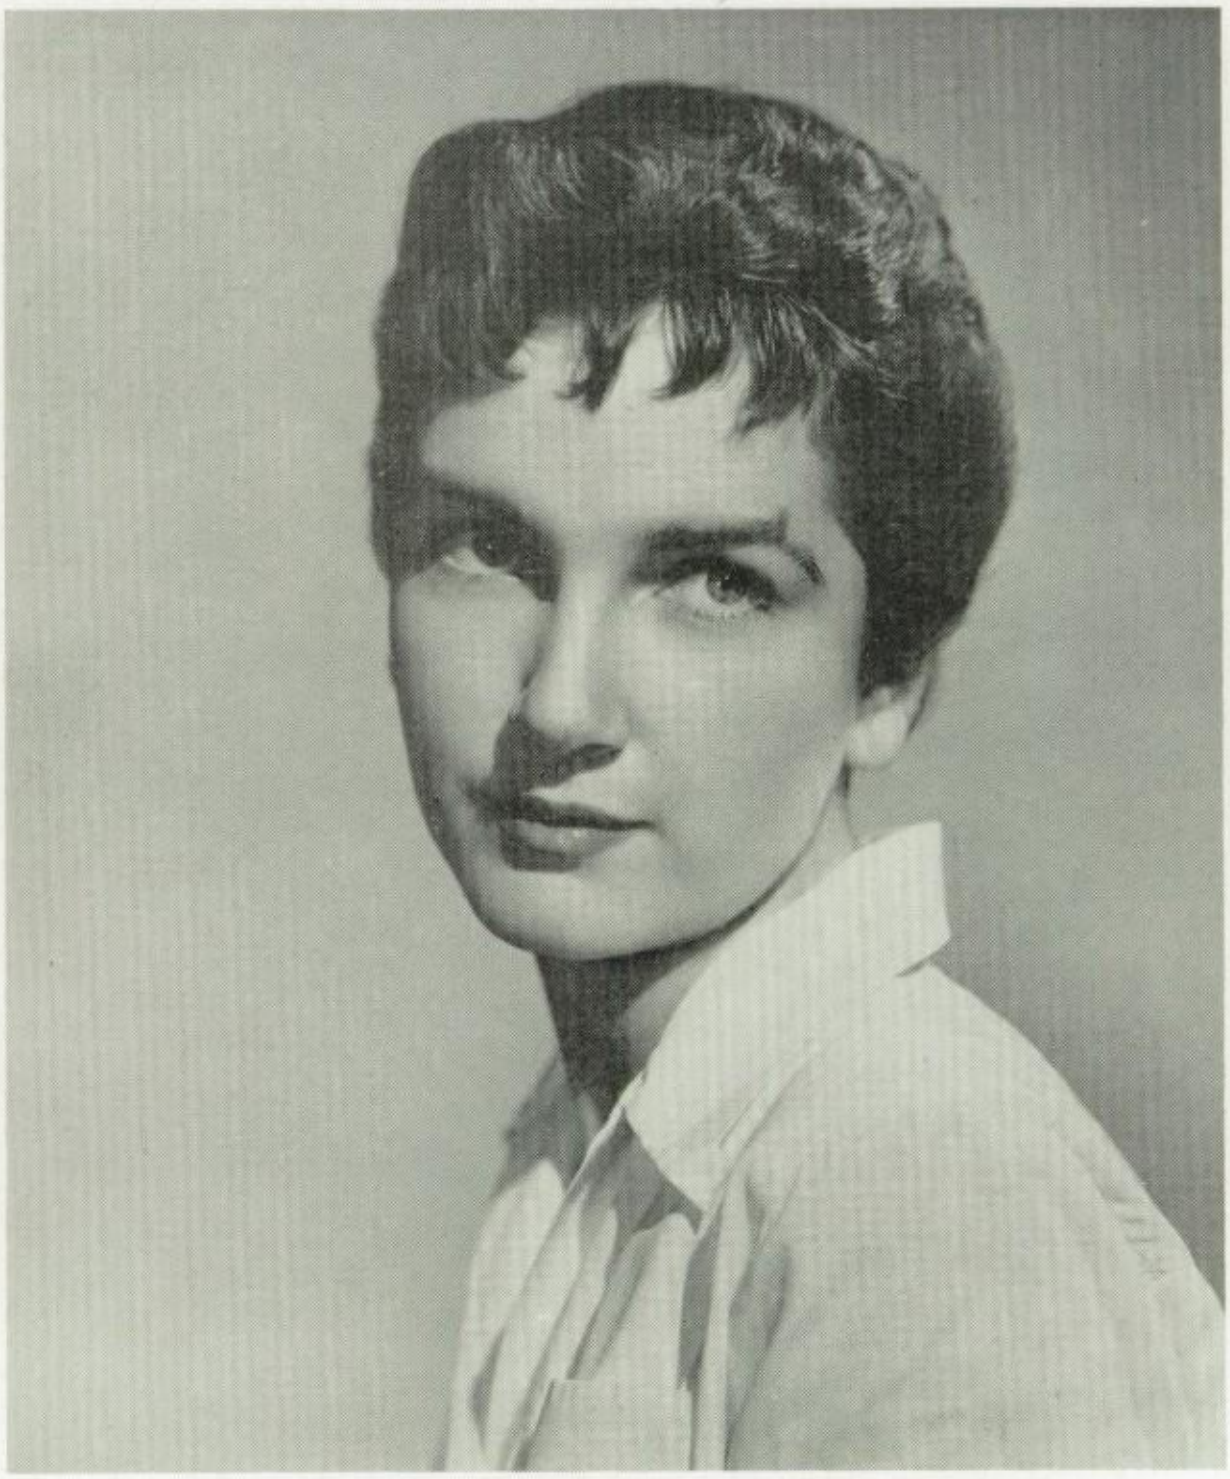
VICTORIA LYNNE MACHET

Vicki's beautiful auburn hair, sparkling brown eyes and freckles combine to make her one of the most attractive girls in our class. She is adept in theatrical makeup, consequently her services as a member of the Mask and Brush Club are much in demand. She will long be remembered for her amusing performance in the tragedy of Little Nellie at the Halloween party when she opened the show with "T'was a dark and stormy night." As class cheer leader, her enthusiasm is apparent when she cheers the senior class teams on to victory.

PEGGY BROWN MEGGS

Editor of the Inlook

One of the cornerstones of the class of 1955, Peg has been at Westridge since the fourth grade. Throughout the years she has lent her inexhaustable spirit and sparkling talent to the enjoyment of all who have known her. A worthy artist and a capable organizer, Peg ends her years at Westridge as the Editor-in-Chief of the yearbook. Her many skills were ably put into the development of the annual Inlook Tea and Fashion Show, the success of which has been unprecedented in the history of the school. "Muggs", the girls with the perpetual sniffle and the much-envied hair-do, is seldom seen without Kleenex and hairbrush.



ANN SEDGWICK MOORE

President of News and Views

Ann, a Westridgeite since the 7th grade, has sent the study hall into gales of laughter this year with her subtle weekly announcements. As well as heading the News and Views Club, into which Ann has brought a new and never-before-seen interest and spirit, she finds the time to model professionally and to write pages of terrific poetry for her own pleasure. Her literary ability extends to journalistic work as well. Ann tackles the laborious yet important task of assisting the editor of the Spyglass. Cal will be Ann's future alma mater.

JANET WINTHROP MORSE

As Head of Maintenance (better known as the "pound), Janet is often heard screaming these words from her desk near the back of the study hall, "Girls, will you please come claim your stuff". Jany has displayed enthusiastic interest in Mask and Brush and has shown her athletic ability by playing on varsities, Roman, and class teams. She is known for her deep voice, hysterical laugh, and definite political views on McCarthyism. Jan can usually be seen taking snaps for the Spyglass, blushing, driving her "Black Bomb" and trying desperately to learn her Spanish vocab.

AMANDA POTTER NYCE

Anything from a slap on the back to a poke in the ribs is the typical way for "Mom" to say, "Hi, gang, why's everybody so silent? Let's have some fun!" Her idiocyncrasies, which are just a single part of her effervescent makeup, include her outbursts of why's and what's, her freshly scrubbed and alert appearance, her love of life and people in general, but first and foremost her love of Princeton. Her philanthropic and kindly side has resulted in her obtaining the vice-presidency of the Junior Auxiliary and her being an active member of the Welfare Association. Her literary ability is lent to the Spyglass and to the Outlook, and her spunk to cheering on the senior class teams. Since she applied to Smith in the 7th grade, we somehow think she may go there next year.

JANET MacLAREN OLSON

Editor of the Spyglass

"Spyglass reporters, don't forget tomorrow is the deadline for your articles," is one of Janet's frequent morning announcements. The position of Editor of the Spyglass is just down her alley as her life ambition is to be active in the field of journalism. Jan would also like to travel. Quick trips to San Francisco, summers at Fallen Leaf Lake, and pizza are three things that come as no hardship to Janet. Her work as chairman of the Junior Concert Goers and making-up the Spyglass dummy have kept Janet busy throughout her final year at Westridge.

JENIFER KATHLEEN PAUL

If one hears "Have you heard the one about . . . ," one automatically knows that it is "J" Paul off on a tangent of wild and hysterical stories. Since her coming to Westridge, Jenifer's classmates have been kept in peals of laughter by this gal's miraculous and individualistic sense of humor. But the other side of Jenifer's Westridge life includes being a conscientious V.P. of the Glee Club. She has even shown her varying interests by being on the advertising staff of the Spyglass and an ardent member of Mask and Brush. Good luck at Briarcliff next year, Jay. We'll miss you.

KATHARINE CORWIN POOLE

Vice-President of the Senior Class

Katie Poole, the vice-president of the senior class, is a determined individual. She has definite opinions about everything from Stevenson to Wouk and will argue them out with anyone! She spent her junior year in Lebanon, and delights her many friends with witty tales of her experiences. She is a many-sided person, and contributes her talents to the Outlook, Spyglass and Student Council, and particularly to the Mask and Brush in which she has captured many an audience with her outstanding character parts. Katie plans to attend college on the East coast next year.

MARION CLAIRE PRENTICE

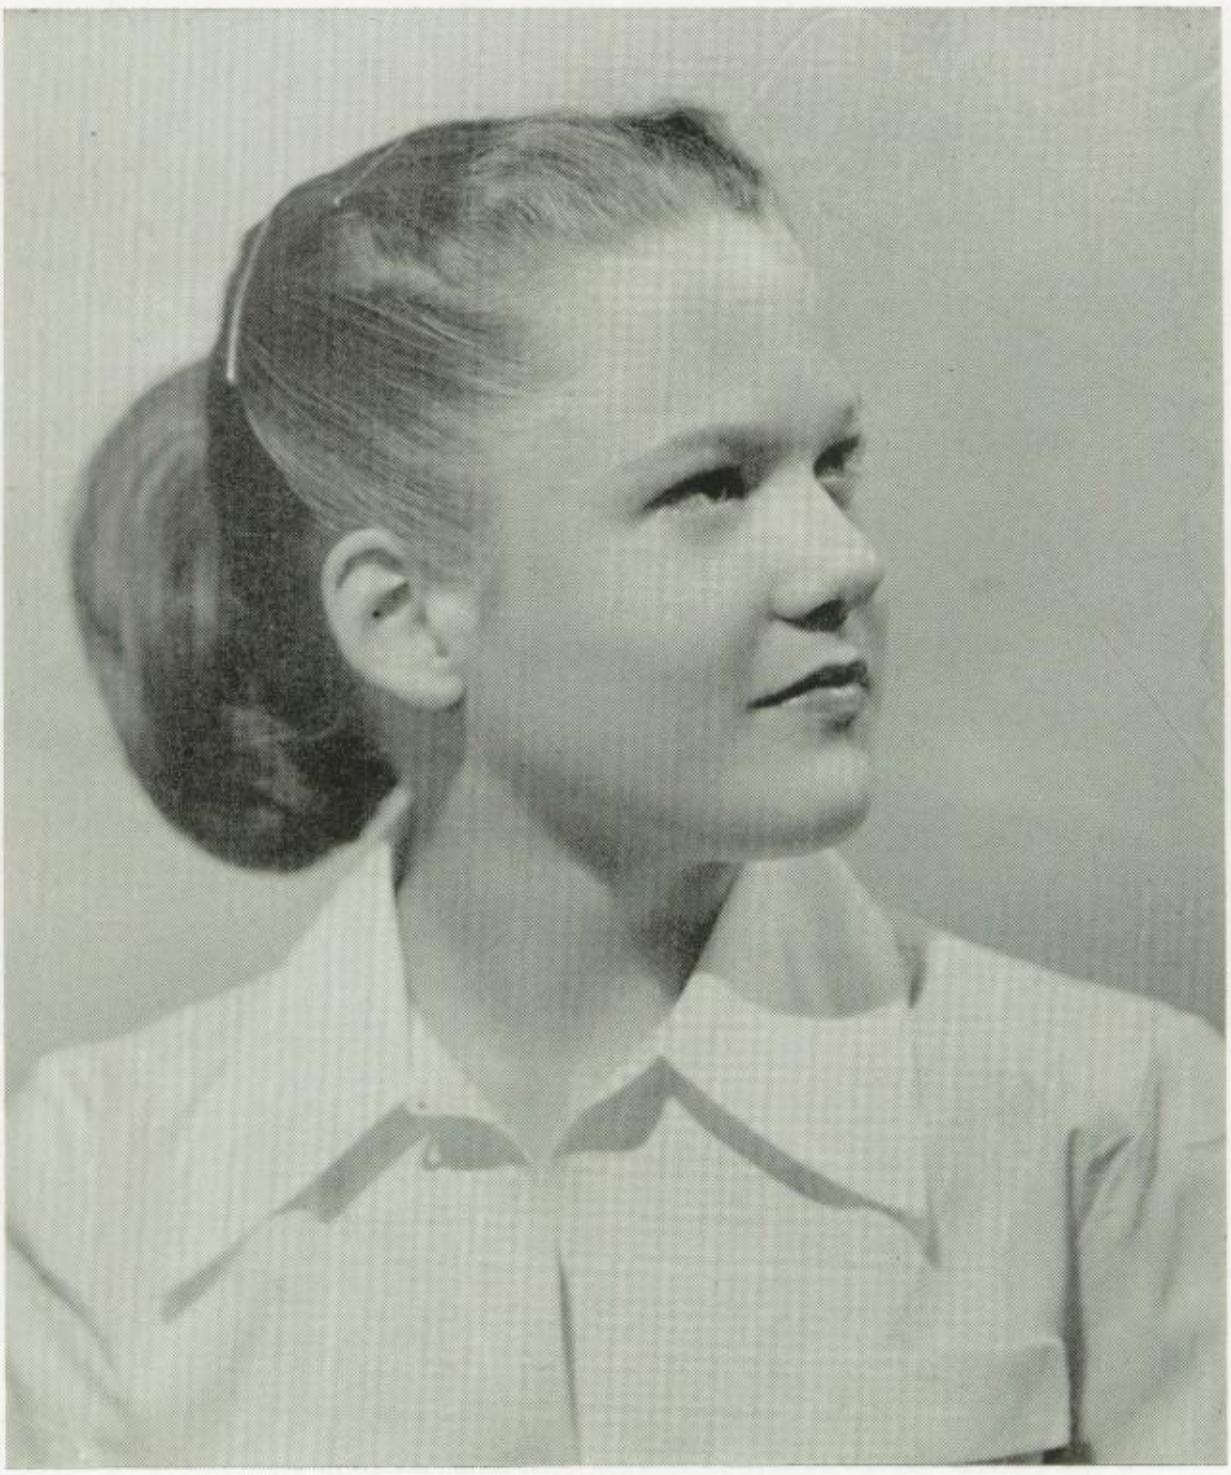
Editor of the Outlook

Marion's versatility is shown by the variety of her numerous activities. She is an enthusiastic member of the Glee Club and the Mask and Brush Club; is active in sports and is a hard-working member of the Junior Auxiliary. As Editor of the Outlook, she will leave her imprint on the school's literary magazine because of the new features she has introduced. Let anyone mention a certain quadruped and she is likely to become involved in a discussion on its geneology. Marion's friends declare her maroon Mercury, in which she dashes around town, expresses its owner's personality. Marion, whose Scandinavian coloring is much admired, is one of the most amiable and popular girls in the class of '55.

NANCY BOND RHODES

Vice-President of the Student Body

In May of her junior year, Nan was elected Vice-President of the Student Body, and from the beginning of her senior year, she has executed her responsibilities competently. The legitimate stage has attracted Nancy's attention and interest for many years, and this year Westridge was privileged to have her play the leading role as "Jo" in the Mask and Brush production of Little Women. In Nan's spare time one can easily find her by tracking down the bridge fiends or by listening for an enthusiastic burst of "Oh, cutie, look at the trump." And, by the way, have you seen her not sporting her Huge Gold Earrings? Although Nan's job requires her to scold the student body at times, still she is cherished as a really good friend by all.



ROBERTA FLOURNOY RICE

President of Glee Club

As President of the Glee Club, Robin ably managed the arrangements for the Webb-Westridge dance, and the operetta. Incidentally, although she is the smallest girl in her class, she has an amazingly powerful voice, and during her years at Westridge played with distinction several leading roles in musical productions. Robin is serious and conscientious in all her undertakings, and it was largely due to her enthusiastic campaign for the Community Chest, of which she was the school head, that the drive was such a success. Besides being a representative on the Welfare and Scharfenberg Committees, Robin has worked many hours for Junior Auxiliary.

CAROL ANN SELEY

Much envied for her perfect complexion, red hair, and turned-up nose, our thoughtful vice-president of Mask and Brush is considered a very attractive gal! Carol's friends know her best for her cheerful manner, her famous collection of jokes, and her never-failing sense of humor. Frequently found cheering on the Rams, or at the races, or intent on a bridge game, Carol "Ann" would be lost without her telephone, sauerkraut and weekends at Ojai. Carol has participated in all phases of Wesridge life, even to cheerleading for the Greeks, and she has proved herself to be one of the popular girls in her class. Her plans for college seem to be centered on the West Coast, which will be convenient for the continuation of her local sports enthusiasms.

SUSAN WALTHALL STRAUBEL

Captain of the Greek Team

Her avid love of the beach, tall men, and classical music typify Suz's varying interests. Although she is known for her quick wit and spontaneous punch lines which send the class into uncontrollable convulsions of laughter, her serious side is in evidence when, surrounded by piles of keywords, outlines, and detailed notes, she is cramming for one of Miss Edmundson's dillies. Her enthusiasm at Westridge has led her into such fields as Glee Club and Mask and Brush, and in her senior year she is kept busy as head of Greeks and as Photography Editor of the Inlook. Her cute figure and style gained her the title of Miss Westridge, and also the distinction of being an outstanding Inlook model. No more diets for you, Sue.

ANN MARIE WAYLAND

One of the most traveled girls in the senior class, Ann spent her junior year in Strasbourg, Alsace, and while she was there learned enough French to shame us all! An active member of the Glee Club and the Mask and Brush, she lent her creative ability to the staff who wrote the very charming Christmas pageant. Usually seen with Kate C. or concentrating on a math problem, she is one of the elite four in Mrs. Reed's trigonometry class. Ann is one of the pioneers of the class of 1955 as she arrived in the fourth grade.

LINDA WILLIAMS

Literary Editor of the Inlook

Every year it's the same thing—the first snow fall and one empty desk in study hall. Linda's. This is due to her passion for skiing, although she dotes on Stanford, chocolate, tall "men" and noise. Linda's literary talents have been evident throughout her many years at Westridge and were culminated this year as a Spyglass reporter and Inlook Literary Editor. Her vivacity and exuberant spirit are continually seen on the athletic fields, while her more subdued talents are witnessed in the Mask and Brush and particularly in the part she played in the Glee Club's production of Patience this spring. Linda is sure to be remembered for her crazy driving, crazy glasses, and crazy enthusiasm, which have made her an unforgettable part of Westridge.

ELIZABETH BIRKS WILSON

Captain of the Roman Team

"Bets" is truly interested in every phase of Westridge life. Our Head of Romans finds time to enter into almost every club or activity the school offers; her spirit is seen on all athletic fields, her looks (including her "do what it's supposed to at the right time" haircut) were envied as she modelled at the Inlook Tea last year, her talent is witnessed in the Mask and Brush and Glee Club, and her personality is best appreciated by her fellow Inlook staff members as she directs the business policy of the annual. The favorite pastime of "Miss Activities" is dieting while eating someone else's lunch! Now, Bets! . . .

Smoothness and harmony have characterized the 1954-1955 Westridge school year, as a result of the increasing success of the Honor Code and the co-interests of the students and the faculty. Through meetings of both the Upper and Lower School Councils, Westridge has satisfactorily supported a year of self-government in which each member of the Student Body took an important part. A bond between the Upper and Lower sections, as well as between nations, has been effected through close cooperation on a scrapbook project for the German affiiliated school at Berlin. While each student did her part to bring the school closer together and to achieve a successful tie between the Student Body and the school government, progress and prosperity have triumphed at Westridge.

THE INLOOK

STANDING: Carol Glover, Jackie Hurschler, Grant Gertmenian.
SEATED: Betsy Wilson, Peggy Meggs (Editor) Susan Struakel, Linda Williams.

"Neat and Complete" was our motto, and we hope that you feel that we have reached our goal: an accurate coverage of every phase of the 1954-1955 school year.

Our task was a hard one, but now that it is finished, we can look back at our seemingly endless hours of toil and sigh, "Yes, it was worth it." And again, thanks for your tremendous backing of the Tea; that money comes in very handy!

All of us on the Inlook staff would like to take this opportunity to thank our advisor, Mrs. Hall, for her endless aid in putting together the book. Believe us. if it hadn't been for her you wouldn't be holding this book in your hands right now.

In conclusion, with the repetition of good points from previous yearbooks and with the addition of a few of our own ideas, we hope you are happy with the 1955 Inlook.

THE OUTLOOK

2ND ROW—Anne Hereford, Linda Leishman, Amanda Nyce, Darlene Coleman, Katie Poole, Judy Cox, Sandra Connell, Tora Newcomer, Barbara Bottomley.

A new and different Outlook greeted Westridgites this year. Instead of the quarterly magazines, Editor Marion Prentice and her staff devised an original, bigger book which was the only Outlook of the year. Published in April, the magazine printed poems ,essays, short stories and book reports submitted by the students. In the large economy-sized edition of sixty pages were announced the winners of the short story and peace essay contests, and the pieces were exhibited.

Th magazine was a thing of beauty with its tri-colored cover, a result of a silk screening process never before attempted.

It is the general opinion that the Outlook Staff of 1955 was the greatest, and their finished product was met with surprised enthusiasm by all.

THE SPYGLASS

SEATED—Linda Rea, Amanda Nyce, Ann Moore, Connie Hahn, Janet Olson (editor), Molly O'Connor, Barbara Glover, Peyton McComb, Mary McGregor.

BACK ROW—Henrietta Egly, Jenifer Hamilton, Cathy Andrews, Katie Poole, Linda Williams, Joan Lamb, Kate Collins, Nonie Davenport, Janet Morse.

With a schedule of seven copies this year, including the special January-February edition, Editor Janet Olsen and her staff were kept pretty busy. The Spyglass policy in 1954-1955 was one of more inter-school exchange, more interesting features, both editorial and news-gathering, and more humor, by way of cartoons and limericks depicting school affairs.

Each class in the upper school was more fully represented with an assistant editor from the senior, junior and sophomore classes on the staff. With this help the paper was outwardly and inwardly improved, and it gained recognized journalistic style with complete coverage of all school and extra-curricular events. The new and better Spyglass has been met with joyous approval by the entire school. Congratulations, staff — it was great!

WELFARE ASSOCIATION

SEATED—Yvonne Nunn, Kate Collins (head), Judy Stever, Darlene Coleman.

STANDING—Cecily Hamlin, Robin Rice, Ann Dreyfuss, Amanda Nyce, Gretchen Smits, Barry Zorthian, Margie Pohlman, Peyton McComb.

This year of 1954-1955 has been one of great success for the Welfare Organization at Westridge. Besides collecting greater amounts for the various drives—Red Cross, Community Chest, and the March of Dimes—the Association received an unprecedented amount of help from the Student Body in sending clothes to needy children in Italy and canned goods to the Church Home for Children at Thanksgiving.

Under the capable leadership of the chairman, Kate Collins, the committee organized and made a terrific success of the annual carnival in May, the proceeds from which went to the World University Service and to the American Friends Service Committee.

Welfare at Westridge has been important this last year, as it has given each girl the chance to participate in tying the bonds of friendship between nations.

SCHARFENBERG COMMITTEE

Nonie Davenport, Ann Dreyfuss, Cecily Hamlin, Kate Co llins, Rosemarie Istel, Peyton McComb (head), Amanda Nyce, Gretchen Smits, Mary Ann Peatman, Robin Rice.

Great, new things were effected this year by the Scharfenberg Committee, among which was the achievement of its long sought-after goal—a foreign student. With Rosemarie Istel here from Germany and another student coming next year, Westridge is playing an important part in making friends in Europe. Never before has there been so much correspondence between the two schools and many packages arrived at Westridge full of colorful Christmas presents in return for the boxes we sent.

The enthusiasm with which Westridge has made friends with Rosemarie and all her friends at Scharfenberg has brought many new understandings and new enjoyments between nations.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Anne Moore (President), Molly Sturges (Vice-President), Janis Young (Secretary).

A brand new feature at Westridge, the News and Views Club, has really become part of the curriculum, and the original ideas of its leaders have brought an unprecedented number of enthusiasts to the weekly meetings. In the club, current events are brought to the attention of the girls by way of debates, both within school and with other schools. This year, News and Views contacted a few interesting and learned speakers who were met with eagerness at Westridge.

The members have become well aware of what is going on in the modern world and have learned a great deal more; public speaking, learning how to gather and tabulate material, and discovering effective methods of organizing it were emphasized in the course of debate.

Certainly the News and Views Club has achieved its purpose of making students fully conscious of the world around them, and has stimulated many to do more on their own to further their education.

MUSIC ASSEMBLY

SEATED—Grace Thorndike, Sydney Bottomley.

1ST ROW—Jane Miller, Caroline Cooley (Head)

2ND ROW—Anne Hereford, Peggy Dickson, Yvonne Nunn, Nancy Corlette.

The monthly music assembly is a much-anticipated event at Westridge. Each one is planned and participated in solely by the students. It is through these assemblies that much of the school's talent is realized by all those watching. It is the committee's job to act as talent scouts in both the upper and lower schools and to bring to the student body a diverse assortment of entertainment. The purpose of the assemblies is to give experience in performance and to give enjoyment to the audiences. For the last years the music assemblies have attained their goal.

CLUBS

MASK AND BRUSH

Carole Seley (Vice-President), Gennith Gilbert (President), Jackie Hurschler (Secretary).

With the presentation of "Little Women" this Spring, Westridge's 1954-55 dramatic season came to a close. The success of this year is undoubtedly the result of good organization by its able officers and the never failing patience of its beloved director, Miss Ewing. The year got off to a good start with the Christmas Pageant derived from an ancient German legend. The Glee Club collaborated in this play as did the two Clubs in the presentation last March of the operetta Patience. The Mask and Brush continues to be one of the most popular activities of the school, as it allows each girl in the organization to work in the field of stage work that she likes best: acting, make-up, scenery, etc. All in all, team work and fun are the key words of a Mask and Brush Club finished product.

GLEE CLUB

FIRST ROW: Robin Rice (President), Jenifer Paul (Vice-President), Toni Dibble, Gigi Poulson, Ann Moore, Judy Cox, Sandie Hoyt, Ann Wayland, Karen Schirm
SECOND ROW: Molly O'Connor, Barbara Trent, Valerie McDermott, Ann Dreyfuss, Jane Miller, Carol Seley, Amanda Nyce, Marion Prentice, Marion Cooley, Anne Hereford, Peggy Dickson, Caroline Cooley, Royanne Terry, Mary Schoentgen.

With a new high of fifty-seven members, the Glee Club started out with its best foot forward toward a successful and enjoyable year. Able and talented Robin Rice, the President of the Club, urged everyone, musical or not, to come, for the Glee Club required nothing but a girl who could carry a tune and be an enjoyable addition to the group.

Starting off with a sparkling Christmas pageant, in cooperation with the Mask and Brush members, the choir has had a year dotted with exciting events: the Webb Dance in February, graduation in June and the high spot in Morch—Gilbert and Sullivan's Patience. Fun for all and a tremendous success, the operetta has made the Westridge Glee Club a renowned name about town—a credit deservingly won!

ATHLETICS

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

SECOND ROW: Adele Hughes, Ann Dreyfuss, Corinne Chandler, Cynthia Hensley, Barry Goodwin, Peyton McComb, Bobbie Glover.

With the return to the "Varsity System", the Athletic Council went all out this year to encourage school spirit in the student body, so that our victorious teams would have extra special support. Their goal was reached, for it seems that sparks flew at every athletic event, whether it was a varsity game, a class play-off, or a Greek and Roman competition. Because of this added incentive there was a particular air of expectation over the Athletic Banquet where letters, point pins and other awards, including a plaque for the victorious Greek or Roman team, were presented. Able officers and spirited support have spelled success for the Athletic Department of 1954-1955.
